Proposals for Chess at the Library

At the board meeting on November 29, the club had a visit from Will O'Hearn, director of Lincoln Library. The club is currently discussing proposals for chess club events to be held at the library. There is already some informal play there; this might be an opportunity for the club to get some exposure and expand its membership. Here is a list of current proposals (note that none of these have been implemented as of January 16.)

- A regular club meeting one Monday evening every month. This would provide an alternative time and place for people who find the Wednesday meetings at the mall, or the Friday meetings at Barnes and Noble, inconvenient.
- Basic strategy classes and lectures, aimed at novices who already know how to play.
- An event where a club member plays all comers for an hour or two, with several games going on simultaneously.
- Unrated tournaments, so long as there are no entry fees or membership requirements (per library regulations).

If you have any input on this topic, we would like your opinion! The club has opened a discussion thread on the club forum, under the "Chess Club" sub-forum. The direct link is: <http://www.springfieldchessclub.com/phpBB3/viewtopic.php?f=3&t=145>

You will need a forum account to post – these are free, and club membership is not required. If you are a first-time registrant, the forum may ask you for a passcode; this is intended to screen out spammers and bots. The current passcode is (redacted).

The library has been renovated recently and there is now a small meeting room on the second floor and some spots out in the open that could be used for chess, in addition to the Carnegie rooms that the club has previously used on occasion for small tournaments.

Thanks

...to James Barnes and David Shane for their recent donations to the SCC.

Board Members Renominated

The SCC's five board members were renominated without opposition to another term, and were elected by acclamation at the meeting on November 29.

Additionally, the club amended its bylaws to place the annual business meeting that includes, at minimum, nominations for the following year's Board in the first Wednesday night meeting after Thanksgiving.

Welcome New Members

Jacob Beaird, of Springfield, has joined the SCC. Membership now stands at 18.
